CRUISE AROUND THE WORLD.

Interesting Letters From Hon. George J. LaBar and Wife.

On Board the Steamer "Cleveland,"
Friday, Oct. 22, 1909.

DEAR FRIENDS AT HOME:—

This is our first attempt to write more than to one friend at a time but having so many to whom our thoughts go out to, as we think of those who were at the depot the night we left home, and are sure there were many who were not there at that time to bid us good-bye and God speed. We could not write to all, excepting in this way, and believe you will read in the spirit it is written, as friend to friend. We hear lectures on board this ship and talks on places we are going to visit; many here have already been to most of the places. I would, if I could, borrow some of the talent on board the ship that I might take all with us in imagination and almost see them, as some lecturers we have listened to have done, on the places we are to visit. If I could, I would not want to return it, I fear, and just here for the benefit of our school girls and boys, whose privilege it may some time be to take this or similar trips. The more education we have the more we can get from traveling, and youth is the time to accumulate that greatest of fortunes that cannot be bought, borrowed or stolen.

The "Cleveland," the ship on which we are sailing, is truly a floating palace. So immense is it that we know little more of our neighbors or what may be taking place in another part of the ship, than we would in a city. There are four dining rooms. We have seen them all, but the one in which we are seated is very large, seating about two hundred. There are beautiful parlors, elevator and dance hall. Each six o'clock dinner is served in courses, so beautifully served, and if we do not have all we can eat and drink and enjoy the grand music at dinner and hours every where, we cannot blame the management of this boat. Lunch served between each meal if we wish. The gynasium is of great interest, especially to fleshy ladies who wish to reduce their flesh. There are horses to ride and many other things for exercise. I think if I could see the ship at a distance to-night I would see a lovely sight, lighted all around the deck with different colored electric lights, while those who love dancing are engaged in that and others who care more for lectures have that pleasure. Flags of every nation are draped around the deck.

The first morning on the ship was Saturday morning, one week to-morrow, and we have been sailing, since we left New York City, amid music from this and other vessels, it being the first trip of this kind and quite an event. This is Friday night and we expect to reach Madeira on Sunday, some time. I must tell you the lovely sound that greeted our ears last Sabbath morning when we heard "Nearer My God to Thee," played by the band before we left our rooms. To those of us who are unaccustomed at being between sky and ocean, the sound struck a responsive chord.

On Sunday morning, we had preaching services and in the evening, prayer and song service. We heard a very good lecture on Madeira last night. I will repeat a story he told us about a man who was taking his first trip on the ocean and being on for a short time. It began to be rough and he was quiet alarmed and went to the captain who assured him there was no danger but it became still rougher and again he went to the captain who told him he would show him the point of danger, to go with him. He led him down to the hold, where men were playing cards, drinking and swearing and told the man that when these men cease that there was danger; after which he passed the captain making several trips and at last being still more alarmed made another trip and finding them still swearing turned and said, "thank God they are still at it." Friday we passed near a school of spouting whales also porpoise and a number of flying fish, also one sea turtle. All the marine life we have seen in 2500 miles, the weather has been very fine all the time; have not seen a vessel of any kind since leaving New York City, in fact we seem to have the ocean all to ourselves and such a jolly good natured set of people I never saw; all seeming to vie with each other in trying to be happy and make others so. Mr. J. P. Felt and Mr. Mattison are well and enjoying the trip. We four are cosily situated at one table, where we meet three times a day for our meals. This is Saturday morning, October 23. and we are expecting to see land to-morrow, after which we will tell you about Madeira.

Respectfully,
MR. AND MRS. GEO. J. LABAR.

October 27, 1909.

DEAR FRIENDS AT HOME:

Here I am seated in my little room making another effort to write to you, quiet out of my sphere I assure you in every way, Not liking the water, but having no other sight outside the ship, except gazing at the moon which is one thing all can see each night,

We reached Feunchal, Madeira at nine o'clock, Sunday morning, October 24th. The first sight after viewing the Island at a distance, unable to comprehend its beauty, was the numerous small boats, each having one or more divers and begging the passengers to throw money into the water, that they might dive after it. They claimed they could not see a penny, it must be five or ten cents. They were kept busy diving until the small steamer arrived to take us ashore to see the beautiful city of Feunchal. The streets here are paved with cobble stones and they tell us they have been made over one hundred years. No wonder they are worn smooth. They use sleds drawn by oxen, in which we had the pleasure (?) of riding, after which we mounted the steep hill, or mountain, in the only steam car the place affords. I wish I could describe the beauty of the mountain, with it's terraces and wall latticea and cottages, all covered with beautiful vines and flowers. We had lunch on top of this mountain, cooked by the natives (of course I enjoyed it) after which we descended in a sled in which were seats for two only, with a rope attached to hold the sled from running too fast. Two men were guiding the sled down the long winding road, walled on either side, and also made of cobble stones in ridges forming steps. It was a strange sensation and I am sure the men earned their money, if they do want all they can get. They carry those sleds up the mountain on their backs. We met many going up as we were coming down, each with a sled looking almost impossible for men of their size to carry. We did not have time to visit the Mission, as I should liked to have done. Some of our party, who had visited the Island before, had time to go and hear a good sermon and hear eight little Portugese girls sing in their own language. The building is nicely situated, just back of the public park.

We had only time to take the boat which brought us to the "Cleveland" after which we were soon on our way to Gibraltar, which place we reached at twelve o'clock. I could scarcely realize we were passing the shores of Morocco, Africa, on one side and Spain on the other, both in sight. Tangier if not far distant also Taraffa, from which comes our word tariff as the Moors use to make all passing ships pay a tariff begorre they could pass. I just saw a whale spouting as he passed the vessel. Not far distant is Trafalger bay where Lord Nelson (I think it was) had his terrible naval battle with the French.

We are now riding at anchor and take lighters and land on the great Rock of Gibralter, which towers 1460 feet in the air, and is truly a wonderful sight to behold and must be seen to be appreciated. We were so fortunate as to secure a carriage to see the sights, but find they will not let us inside of the fortifications but we are told that there are 30 miles of tunneling inside the rocks and we could see the port holes through which the guns of old England could speak in every direction, and immense guns on the very top. In order to get water to supply the garrison and town, as it is sometimes and at present has not rained for a year, we found they have cemented out side of the rock to catch the water and turn it into immense reservoirs We are much impressed with the place and the people with their loads of merchandise on their heads and on their donkeys carrying bottles of water and milk, there being no other conveyance than one horse carriages and donkeys. One of our party rode a donkey. He said he wanted them to take the baskets off but they would not do so, so he rode with them on but was unable to sell any of the produce as they wanted it too cheap Having seen about all we could of the place we told the driver to cross over to Spain, as this is the only chance we will have to see the land of the Don. We did not see a whole lot but it was interesting to us. Lots of beggars following us all the time, asking for pennies (two cents). I never saw so many one armed boys and all pointing to the stub to gain our sympathy, but we soon discovered that they doubled their arms at the elbows and shoved them in their shirt sleeves in that way. You can rest assured they got no alms. A small urchin wanted to sell me a canary bird for a sixpence, so the guide told me. I gave the boy a penny. He proceeded to cut the string to which he had it fastened willing to take the penny rather than none. I told him I did not want the bird. It was good to hear his boisterous laugh as he realized that he had bird and penny both. We visited the bull ring, as that seemed to be the only point of interest. Nothing more to see, as our time was limited, we returned to the wharf, paid our driver took the lighter for the "Cleveland" and turning out of the harbor and around the "Rock" started on our trip through the Mediterranean, on which we are now on our way to Naples, which we expect to reach about Friday noon.

Love to all

Respectfully,
MR. AND MRS. GEO. J. LABAR.

"Ma's New Husband."

"Ma's New Husband" spells mirth in the very title. Talk of love under difficulties; this three act musical farce furnishes more difficulties in half an hour for a pair of lovers than are ordinarily encountered in a courtship that lasts several years. And the crowning virtue of the obstacles in this case lies in the fact that they never call for tears, except when the excessive laughter evoked brings them to cool cheeks aflame from risable exertion. All this, and more, has been true of the appearance of "Ma's New Husband" in other cities, and theatre goers here will have an opportunity to judge for themselve, when the piece will be presented at the Emporium Opera House, Tuesday evening, Nov. 23.

Fancy and Plain White Aprons.

The Ladies' Sewing Society of Emmanuel Church are prepared to take orders for fancy or plain white aprons at the Parish House on Thursday afternoons between the hours of three and six.

Deer Season Opens.

Well, the deer season is on and by the way the hunters are flocking to Kettle Fork is evidence that venison will be plenty and cheap. The woods is full of hunters, who have been moving in since the 10th; more than 800 permits have already been granted this season, besides campers who are camping on state lands. One party arrived last Thursday, and are well supplied with the necessary refreshments, having 30 kegs of beer, two casks of whiskey and two cases of old rye. It took four teams to deliver the outfit to the camp. All of the others are well provided with "snake bite" medicine and "anti-toxine" for buck fever. Dr. Corbett took the temperature of several Saturday night and says their fever was away up.

O. L. Bailey moved to his camp on Friday and a big buck came along to take a look at them. John Logue says it was the same buck that awakened him when he fell asleep on a log last fall.

Frank Wolfe and party moved out to their camp on Rock Run, Saturday while Henry Berfield and his crew located on Cooks Run, Friday; Frank Burke and party are located on Two Mile Run and reported seeing one on Friday; Alvin Smith and company are camping on Cooks Run; Seth Nelson has taken his stand on Mill Run with a party of ten; Frank Miller and crew are at Arksill Run for a week; Crum Bro's moved into their camp at the head of Little Jerry Run on Saturday. Wash Crum of St. Marys, accompanied them in his new hunting suit.

The mighty hunter and his crack shots, Jas. R. Batchelder and other "Daniel Boons" are well situated in Lover Pier Draft of Wykoff Run; J. C. Durr and friends are situated at Painter Rocks; J. C. Wilcox and a party of friends are at Big Spring, Rathbun; Jack Mead and party will hunt at Old Pine Camp at Rathbun. These crews alone will be sufficient to wipe out the game.

Jim Batchelder captured two more bear last week and did not leave them in the traps until they were dead either. It is too bad to do that, brother.

A party of capitalists and practical powder men, were here last week, locating a site for the new dynamite plant at Wyside. Work on the new plant will begin about the 20th of this month, which will give work to a great many men this fall and winter. W. H. Metzger of Idamar, Pa., is talking of moving back as soon a the new plant is commenced. No doubt a good many more who have had to go away to get work, since Barclay Bros mill shut down will move back into their properties that they have here.

The scoundrel who burned up Mrs. John Logue's hay should be treated to a coat of tar and feathers. We have no room for such characters here.

DEBSE

A Great Event.

The Mountaineer Hose Company, No. 1, are sparing no effort to make their Thanksgiving dance a great success and in view of the extensive advertising they are doing, we feel that this will surpass, by far, any dance given in Emporium heretofore. The management informs us that several hundred electric lights of various colors will be used for decorating purposes and that especially arranged electrical features will be used in connection with a number of their dances. This together with the excellent supper and music which they are promising, should make this dance attractive and enjoyable for both old and young.

The Mountaineer Hose Co., the pioneer fire organization of the Borough, is composed mostly of young men who are always ready and willing to respond to a fire alarm. During the past year they have expended several hundred dollars for improved fire fighting apparatus we feel that every property owner, insurance payer and in fact every resident of Emporium, as well as visitor, is indebted to these boys for their support and patronage at this dauce.

"Ma's New Husband."

To know when, and when not to laugh has made many a man's and many a woman's fortune. One of the rare exceptions, which proves the truth of this; is, "Ma's New Husband." This screaming musical farce does not give you time to exercise discretion. It forces you to laugh, whether you like to or not, and to laugh all the time. In fact it is a depository for unlimited laughs on which you draw constantly for two hours and thirty minutes. See it at the Emporium Opera House, Tuesday evening, Nov. 23.

Basket Ball.

Last Friday evening marked the opening of the basket ball season for Emporium and was between Renovo and the home team. The resulted in a victory for Renovo, by the score of 37 to 22. The game game was well played by both teams. On Saturday evening the local team went to Eldred and were defeated by that team.

Next Friday evening the Emporium High School will play the Renovo High School at Renovo.

"Lena Rivers."

The presentation of "Lena Rivers" which is to be made at the Emporium Opera House on Thursday evening, Nov. 18, should prove highly diverting. It would seem as if every one had read Mrs. Mary J. Holmes' book, and it would also seem as if every one who has done so, wants to see the play dramatized from it.

Popular Production Coming.

"Lena Rivers" will be produced at opera house, Thursday evening, Nov. 18th. This will be a great attraction.

MRS. HOWARD DIES AFTER LONG ILLNESS

Widow of Late Lumberman and Prominent Mason was Honored Through City for Her Charity and Goodness of Heart—Remembers Williamsport Institutions.

[Williamsport Bulletin, Nov. 15th, 1909.]

Mrs. Amanda E. Howard, widow of the late William Howard, a former prominent lumberman of this city, died at her residence, 1139 West Fourth street last evening at 8:40 o'clock.

Mrs. Howard was associated with the charitable interests of Williamsport and was honorary life president of the Ladies Auxiliary of the Baldwin II Commandery, Knights Templar. Funeral services will be held at Trinity Episcopal church on Wednesday afternoon at 3 o'clock—to which friends are invited.

Mrs. Howard had been ill for some time and for several weeks sought to regain her health at Atlantic City.

Mrs. Howard will be always remembered by the people of Williamsport for her good works, and it is understood that many charitable institutions of this city will be benefitted by her will. Friends of the dead lady say that she has substantially provided for the Williamsport hospital, and that among other memorials to her charity in this institution will be a free bed.

CARRIED OUT HUSBAND'S WISH.

It was through the instrumentality of Mrs. Howard that the wishes of her husband, the late William Howard, regarding the erection of the Howard Memorial of the Scottish Rite Cathedral in this city were carried out. During the last days that the late William Howard lived, he planned, with leading members of the Masonic fraternity for the erection of the memorial, but before he gave the money, or provided for the erection of the structure in his will, death called him. Mrs. Howard knew of the wishes of her husband, and in consultation with members of the fraternity assured them that she desired a portion of his estate set aside for the memorial. In order to put the matter on a firm legal basis a friendly suit in equity was instituted and Mrs. Howard testified to the wishes of her husband aud told of a verbal agreement he had made with the Masonic body here.

As a result of her action the magnificent memorial in East Fourth street was erected and stands as a monument to the generosity of her husband and of herself..

Our citizens, very generally, deeply regret the death of Mrs. Howard, who resided in Emporium for many years and was highly respected. She came to Emporium in the fall of 1868 from Mehoppany, Wyoming county, Pa., her birth place, with her first husband, Frank Crane. Her maiden name was Ross and was a niece of the late Judge Solomon Ross. After the death of her husband, by strict economy and excellent business judgement, she accumulate considerable property.

About sixteen years ago, she married William Howard, now deceased, of Williamsport, to whom she was a wise help-mate. We knew her intimately and enjoyed, in a measure, her confidence. Deceasrd leaves four sisters and one brother. Her funeral took place at Williamsport yesterday afternoon from Trinity Episcopal Church and was very largely attended, a number from this place attending.

Another Emporium Boy Makes Good.

Nothing delights us more than when we see an Emporium boy climb up the ladder and many, very many, Emporium products are now occupying positions of honor and responsibility. The last, but not least, to enter the race for postition in the world, is Don M. Larrabee, of Williamsport, who was recently selected as secretary of the Williamsport Board of Trade, a very exacting and responsible position. We congratulate our friend, feeling that the PRESS was a little bit responsible for his walk-ahead gait, he having been with us for two years. While speaking of his appointment the Williamsport Bulletin, the neatest and one of the most ably conducted dailies in the state, says: "It not only places the position in capable hands, but it enlists in the service of Williamsport a young man who has everybody's confidence. Mr. Larrabee is well known among business and professional men. His standing as a lawyer is unimpeachable. He has the four essentials of energy, enthusiasm, progressiveness and popularity, and there can be no doubt of his ability. Thus equipped, he enters Williamsport's service with a determination to do all that lies within his power, which is much."

As Solid as the Rock of Gibraltar

Bank Examiner W. J. Robertson visited Emporium last Monday on his semi-annual investigation of the First National Bank. Of course he found our banking institution one of the best in the state and ranking with the leading banks of the sountry. The large assets of the First National Bank, now almost one million dollars, is a self evident fact that the public has faith in its safe, sane and judicious business management.

"The Isle of Spice."

Uninterrupted success and quite indestructible popularity have, evidently, combined to make "The Isle of Spice," this season, more tuneful, more splendid, more generally attractive than ever. At Emporium Opera House in the near future.

"Lena Rivers."

When Nixon & Co., decided to put out a production of "Lena Rivers," dramatized from Mrs. Mary J. Holmes' novel, they immediately engaged Miss Buelah Poynter, to make the book into play form. Miss Poynter made a careful study of the book and then decided to visit the scenes of the book, as the story is a true one in a great many respects. This play will be presented at the Emporium Opera House, Thursday evening, Nov. 18th.

Class Baked Goods Sale.

Next Saturday, Nov. 20th, Mrs. John H. Day's class of the Presbyterian Sunday School will hold a bread and cake sale at the Theatorium. A full line of nome-made bread, cakes, pies, baked beans, etc., will be ready for your Saturday and Sunday meal, so give the young ladies a call. Also help to make the sale a success by sending good things from your own ovens and —then buy somebody else's baking.

The Cruise Around the World.

Mr. Clark writes, "New York, Nov. 15th, 1909. The Cruise of the "Cleveland" progresses nicely, the steamer having just been reported as arriving at Bombay. At this point many of the party will leave the ship to visit Agra and other inland points.

Letters just received from Naples testify to the excellent management and ship's service, and all on board are very happy.

FRANK C. CLARK.

Enjoyable Straw Ride.

A number of the Baptist Church members, young and old, together with a number of invited guests, enjoyed a straw ride to the pleasant home, "Fairview," of Mr. and Mrs. M. J. Leadbetter, last Saturday evening, where they were pleasantly entertained until the clock dial almost pointed to the mid-night hour. The jolly party certainly did have a grand time, as all are sure to have who visit Mr. and Mrs. Leadbetter, who heartily join in the festivities. The party, one and all, are under lasting obligations for the courteous treatment they received at the hands of Mr. and Mrs. Leadbetter, not forgetting the kindness of Mr. C. H. Felt and Ralph Kautz, who furnished the conveyance. The party was composed of the following:

Rev. and Mrs. John L. Bogue, Mr. and Mrs. H. H. Mullin, Mr. and Mrs. Chas. E. Crandell, Miss Mary Hilyard, Chas. H. Felt, Misses Jennie Loucks, Vera Olmstead, Rachel Day, Charlotte Spence, Mollie Spence, Elizabeth Crandell, Ethel Turley, Margaret Crandell, Pauline Crandell, Ruth Jackson, Bartan, Jessie Fowler and the Misses Sassman and Miss Krise, Messrs. Primitive Philosophy.

Animism is the name of a theory originally propounded by Stahl, about 1707. It asserts that the soul is the vital principle and only cause of life, and that the functions of plant and animal life depend upon this principle of vitality, and not mere mechanical and chemical action. As the word is now used, it denotes the general doctrine of spiritual beings. It is not itself a religion, but a sort of primitive philosophy.

Boosts and Knocks.

How comes it that the evil which men say spreads so wildly and lasts so long, whilst our good, kind words don't seem somehow to take root and bear blossom? Is it that in the stony hearts of mankind these pretty flowers can't find a place to grow? Certain it is that scandal is good, brisk talk, whereas praise of one's neighbor is by no means lively hearing.—W. M. Thackeray.

Pain and Grief Common to All.

It is not surprising that "accidents are always happening." Even kings and queens cannot live through calm and peaceful days. Toothache attacks their royal nibblers and gout brings pain to honored toes. Disappointment, suffering, loss of money, anxiety are merely bitter ingredients in the formula of daily existence.

This Must Mean New York.

American men and women to-day hire their wives and husbands as they hire their houses and carriages. Therefore if they are not suited they proceed to hire different ones! Hire, tire, and "fire" seems to be the motto for the modern home! — Current Literature.

Spectacles.

The invention of spectacles is variously attributed to Alessandro di Spina, who died at Pisa in 1313; to Al Hazen, the Arabian (eleventh century), and to Roger Bacon (1214-92). It is quite safe to suppose that the invention was not earlier than the beginning of the eleventh century.

Causes of Quarrel Removed.

"Is your husband thoroughly domesticated by this time?" "Oh, yes. He never has any loose change in his pocket, and is careful not to leave any of his private letters lying around the house. We have little to quarrel about, now."—Cleveland Leader.

A True Republic.

The only country we can think of where republican traditions are properly followed out is the little state of Andorra, and there they have no politicians; everybody works.—London Saturday Review.

A Non-Subscriber.

A south Missouri editor refused to publish a death notice of a non-subscriber. "People who don't take the home paper," he said, "never were alive, and their passing away has no news value."—Kansas City Star.

NO "PORK BARREL"

PRESIDENT TAFT'S POSITION ON WATERWAYS PROJECT.

Assurance That Wise Supervision of Large Sum Needed Will Be Exercised Will Be a Source of Satisfaction.

President Taft's speech at St. Louis gives assurance that his administration does not intend to tolerate either reckless enthusiasm or sectional favoritism in the government's policy of waterways improvement.

Each project, he declares, must be taken up strictly on its merits; whether the territory to be affected will justify the expenditure, whether the improvement will be useful when done, whether it will be beneficial to the entire country.

Under no considerations would he have the funds dedicated to any waterways enterprise merely because it would boom certain sections and boost certain congressmen back into office. In the political vernacular, there is going to be no "pork barrel" in the administration's program for improving our waterways.

The president's declaration will tend to reassure those who have been staggered by the project of placing a bond issue of from $500,000,000 or $1,000,000,000 at the tender mercies of congress for the purpose of improving our waterways.

Only a strong hand and an informed head to oversee the appropriations of these vast sums can hope to insure their wise and legitimate employment in the monumental task to which they would be dedicated.

Neither the independent and enthusiastic expert, seeing all things in the light of an ideal, nor the conservative, time-serving politician, with vision restricted by the present, is here a reliable guide. There is a sane, practical, middle ground that will seek to make a beginning on sound and broad economic foundations, and to outline a future policy capable of gradual fulfillment without ever embarrassing the nation financially or interfering with its other needful projects.

We hope that President Taft will prove the man who can act the harmonizing buffer between the various elements who will come to loggerheads in the framing of the government's policy toward waterway improvement. His plain speech at St. Louis encourages our belief that the hope is well-grounded.— Milwaukee Free Press.

Tillman and Taft Agree.

Senator Tillman's refusal to pay $10 for his dinner, even though he ate it in the company of the president of the United States, will awake a grateful echo, we imagine, in Mr. Taft's own bosom. It is a fact calling for the attention of the professional sociologist that the president should have been most exposed to the horrors of the $10 dinner among the thoroughbred Democracy of the far west and that his meals should have grown simpler, and incidentally more nutritive, as he has made his way back to the effete and hyper-civilized Atlantic border. Now, $10 a plate for a great state banquet does not strike one as too much, even for South Carolina, but to one haunted with an unbroken vision of turtle soup and squab the Jeffersonian dollar dinner must seem the ideal thing. On this point Mr. Taft and Senator Tillman undoubtedly meet, and the breakup of the solid south is brought by so much nearer. In general it would be well if on future presidential trips local committees could rid themselves of the notion that the presence of the chief magistrate of the nation is intended to show what the best hotel in town can do, or, on the other hand, that he was intended by nature for trying out the most complex dishes that local patriotism can evolve.—New York Evening Post.

MAINTAIN INTEGRITY OF LAW

Incalculable Harm Will Be Done if Confidence in Pure Food Measure Is Disturbed.

A singular, and, if it were to be credited, decidedly disturbing assertion is made by a Washington correspondent with reference to the impending tariff war with France. It is that if the French government should apply its maximum tariff rates to our goods this government might among other measures "retaliate by subjecting French wines and spirits to a rigorous test under the pure food law."

The statement is unauthorized and it is hoped will remain so. There could be nothing more likely to destroy confidence in the integrity of the enforcement of the pure food law than the currency of such a report as this. Indeed, if the statement were made upon recognized authority it would make confidence impossible in the administration of that law

Plainly under the law if French wines are adulterated they must be condemned; while if they are pure they must be approved. To suppose that inspection can be used to affect the tariff war implies one of two things. Either it means that if the French government will abstain from its obnoxious measures the United States inspectors will be instructed to admit adulterated goods as genuine; or, if the French government persists, our government will have pure goods condemned as impure. Either course would be destructive of the integrity of the law, and we believe that either imputation is grossly unjust.

The pure food law was enacted to protect the people of the United States from adulterations. If it is not enforced strictly on its merits it is a fraud and imposition. It cannot be honestly mixed up with an international dispute over tariff rates. We reject the idea that any attempt will be made so.

Comptroller Murray and Bank Loans.

National banks are restricted in the size of the loans they may make to any one person. Up to a few years ago the restriction was very great—too great, indeed, to be practicable or desirable. Now, however, the law is liberal, since it permits loans to the amount of ten per cent. of the combined capital and surplus of the bank, with the provision, however, that none shall exceed 30 per cent. of the capital.

Comptroller of the Currency Murray has just announced that he is about to devote especial attention to enforcing this provision. It is said that not many years ago 60 per cent. of the banks violated it, but that at present the percentage has been reduced to 15. The comptroller holds that there should be no violation at all. He is handicapped, however, in his efforts at enforcement by the fact that the only penalty he has it in his power to inflict is the revocation of an offending bank's charter. And where the excess loans in no way impair the bank's solvency he hesitates to impose so radical a punishment. Nevertheless, he has announced that just this punishment he will be compelled to resort to before very long.

The situation has one moral for congress which is very plain. It is that the statute should be so amended as to permit the comptroller to use penalties on a graduated scale. A provision that banks would forfeit all interest on excess loans might serve very well as a penalty for a first offense.

The President Feeling His Way.

President Taft's message to the sixty-second congress is complete. He has written it on the slopes of the Rockies, in the alkali dust of the inter-mountain states and on the blushing fruit lands of the Pacific slope. Little is lacking from the document save the executive's benediction to the lawmakers and a few recommendations handed him by members of his cabinet. Taken as a whole the trip just taken might well be called a try-out of the message.

BOY ROBS BANK TWICE

SHOOTS ASSISTANT CASHIER AND TAKES ABOUT $1,000.

Youthful Bandit Then Flees With the Booty, but Wounds Himself When Posse Closes In On Him.

...October ... — Earl Bullock, the ... with a companion, who robbed held up the cashier of the ... and robbed it again. He is ... probably from a self-inflicted wound, while Fred Starr, assistant cashier of the Kaw Valley State bank of Eudora, suffers from a bullet wound inflicted by the bandit. In his first hold up of the Eudora State bank Bullock shot and killed a policeman.

As officers had about decided that Bullock had left the state with the loot of the previous hold up, he and McKay entered the State bank about closing time. While the robbers were at work Starr entered the Eudora bank, which is the town's clearing house. In his hands were the day's clearings and the robbers turned on him and shot him through the jaw. Grabbing all the ready money in sight, about $1,000, the bandits then ran out through the back door of the bank.

Harry Wilson, a son of Cashier Wilson, spread the alarm and citizens armed with shotguns, rifles and revolvers pursued the bandits across the fields. In attempting to swim the Kaw river the boys lost ground and a few minutes later the pursuers were at their heels. McKay then surrendered, but Bullock, wrenching the revolvers from his faltering partner's hands, sped on into a woods.

John Miller, a farmer, who knew nothing about the pursuit, stepped into Bulock's path and the boy, thinking him a pursuer, fired several shots that barely missed Miller. Seeing that the youth was ready to shoot at anyone, the pursuers fired a score of shots at Bullock, who returned the fire. Thus the chase continued for some time, none of the shots exchanged between the citizens and their quarry taking effect. The hunted robber gradually lost ground and with scant hope of escape, he stopped and shouted defiance at the fast approaching hunters.

"I have only one bulet left, but I'll beat you yet," he shouted and fired his remaining bullet through his own head. McKay was later captured.

STORMS AND FLOODS DAMAGE

Believed that Many Lives Have Been Lost in the West Indies—Large Amount of Property Destroyed.

Kingston, Jamaica, via Holland Bay. —From fragmentary reports that are arriving here from the countryside, the damage resulting from the storms and floods which have raged throughout the island since November 5 is enormous. The greater portion of the railway and the coast line on the north side of the island have been seriously damaged. Landslides are numerous on the main railroad, and communication has been completely cut off. Many bridges also have been carried away.

No communication has been possible between this city and interior points since the 6th. There have been many deaths from the floods, it is believed, and many maritime disasters, though these cannot be definitely described. Numerous sloops have been lost off the coast. The Norwegian steamer Amanda and the Bradford of the United Fruit Co. went ashore at Port Antonio and the Bradford is a total wreck. The bark Avalon before reported ashore at Woodstock point, went to pieces in the gale. She belonged to the Atlantic Fruit Co. The submarine cable of the Danish West Indies Co. has been broken.

Property in and around Kingston has suffered severely, the damage sustained thus far being estimated at $500,000.

The banana plantations in the north and northeastern portions of the ilsand have been badly hit by the storm.

GENERAL TRADE IS BUOYANT

Open Weather Helps Outside Construction Work, but Retards Opening of Winter Wear Lines.

New York City.—Bradstreets says: Continued mild weather is helpful to building and other outdoor construction work and facilitates fall plowing and winter wheat growth, but at the same time is a source of considerable complaint as to its effect on retail trade in heavy dry goods, clothing and heavy wearing apparel.

In other wholesale lines, however, reports are still to a high degree favorable, holiday demand is especially active and spring business is being booked in good volume, except where, as in cotton goods, high prices and uncertainty as to future prices of raw material check selling operations. The general tone of affairs commercial is buoyant. In industry generally the report is still one of well filled order books and of full time run. Iron and steel production is active.

HOW BLOCK SIGNALS WORK

Operation of Ingenious System That Insures the Safety of Railroad Passengers.

Comparatively few people know just what is meant by block signals when they read that a railroad has established the system on its lines. The block is a length of track which, on double track roads, has at its entrance a post and movable arm, and on single track lines one at each end. To say that a line has every inch protected by this system means that the entire line is divided into consecutive blocks. Only one line from Chicago to New York is thus protected, and of the total in the United States, one-third is on the Union and Southern Pacific.

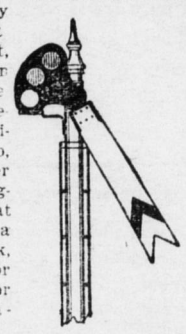
The operation of the block system is simple but absolute. In a few words, it means that a train cannot move from one block into the next until the latter block is empty. As a train moves forward, the signal arm is set to show that the block just left may be entered by the next train following. When a train enters a block it so affects the energy that is a part of signaling that the semaphore arm remains horizontal until the block is vacated, when the arm automatically drops and points diagonally toward the ground. Therefore, as long as the engineer sees only drooping signals he can keep on going, but the instant he finds the arm stretching out over the track, he must come to a stop, knowing that that block is occupied by another train.

The energy mentioned above is electricity; the current being obtained from a battery near each post. The rails of each block are made as if all of one piece by connecting the joints with wire. The extreme ends are then connected and thus a circuit is formed in which the current flows. When no train is in the block, the mechanism operated by the current pulls the arm down and holds it there. When a train enters the block the wheels and axles, combined with the rails, form a shorter circuit, the energy that held the arm down is withdrawn and up it swings to a horizontal position.

Each block is independent of all other blocks. When the last wheels of a train leave it, the current resumes its flow and the signal arm at the entrance is pulled down to the "proceed" position. But before the hind wheels have finished doing this, the front wheels of the locomotive have entered the next block and caused the arm there to rise to the "stop."

For a single track line the automatic arrangement is the same, but there is a signal at each end of the block. To prevent two trains on a single track line entering a block at the same time from opposite ends, before the entrance to a single track block is reached the train sets a stop signal at the far end of that block, and as it enters it sets the entrance signal to stop just as is done on double track. Half a mile or more before reaching the entrance signal of each block the engineer comes to what is called the "distant," which tells him how the other or "home" signal is set.

As the automatic signal is constructed, it cannot show "go ahead" unless the entire combination of rails, wire, current, magnet, etc., is working perfectly. If a wire parts, a rail breaks, a battery fails, a switch point opens the slightest, the combination fails and the released arm resumes the horizontal position. So, when the engineer sees the stop signal, he knows that there may be a train on the block, an open switch, or a broken rail or signaling apparatus.



At night colored lights are displayed on the same posts. The lamps will burn eight days without replenishing, but are refilled every four or five days. When the home signal is at stop, the engineer sees the flame through a red glass. The caution light on the distant is yellow. A green lights means go ahead and is used on both the home and distant signals.

Where two or more lines cross at grade the general plan of semaphore arms for day and colored light for night is the same, but owing to the complications all signals are controlled by levers operated by men from a central station. The crossing and contiguous tracks are governed by the interlocking system. When this is in perfect order and the crossing unoccupied, it displays "stop" to every track approaching the crossing. Any change must be made by the signalman, and to display "proceed" he must first lock all other approaches with the stop signal.

There are now about 11,000 miles of railway equipped with the block system. The only line thus protected every inch from Chicago to California is via the Northwestern, Union and Southern Pacific. One-third of the 11,000 miles of automatic signaling is on the Harriman lines—and the Northwestern has more miles of double track automatic than any other railway.

For the Hostess

Chat on Interesting Topics of Many Kinds, by a Recognized Authority

A Novel Shower.

A dozen girls who lived for years as neighborhood friends showered one of their number, who is to be a December bride, in this unusual manner: The hostess asked them all to meet at her house informally at two o'clock, the bride-elect was asked to come at three. In this way the hostess explained her scheme, which was as follows. She had material for each one to make the following articles: A dusting cap, three dusters, a broom bag, ironing holder, laundry bag, kitchen apron, clothespin bag, roller towel and a case to wind linen doilies on. The entire cost was added and divided equally and then each article was wrapped in tissue paper, tied with ribbon and hidden throughout the rooms. When the honored guest arrived, they chatted awhile, then the hostess announced that a fairy godmother had confided to her that there were packages of value concealed within the portals of the room, to be discovered only by a bride-elect and to the tune of bridal music. Whereupon the hostess sat down to the piano and played wedding marches while the merry little bride hunted the hidden treasures, guided by the loud or soft tones on the piano. All the packages being discovered, they were opened and the girls all set to work on which ever piece they chose. They pronounced this a utility "shower," and it certainly was practical, for the guest of honor said her mind was so in the clouds that she had never even dreamed of the articles presented. Besides it was a jolly afternoon. Refreshments were English toasted muffins, orange marmalade, preserved ginger and delicious tea, brewed by the hostess.

The Golden Wedding.

A fiftieth anniversary to be celebrated this month is going to be a most beautiful affair. The invitations are lettered in gold engraving and ask you to arrive between the hours of eight and ten. The decorations throughout the rooms are to be in yellow, consisting of showers of gilt wedding bells, which are to swing from every chandelier and be suspended by yellow tulle and yellow satin ribbon over the heads of the couple where they will stand to receive congratulations. This corner is to be made a perfect bower of greens studded with yellow chysanthemums. Brass candlesticks holding yellow candles are to stand on piano, mantel, bookcases, etc. The honored bride will carry a bouquet composed of 50 yellow roses, and the refreshments are to be orange ice, New York ice cream, sunshine cake iced with yellow, and the bonbons are to be wrapped in gilt paper. Gilt bell-shaped boxes are to be given as souvenirs, bearing the monogram of the happy pair. The November stone is the topaz, and it works up beautifully into seals, with handle of gold, into watch fobs and pins. I have seen all these articles and they will go as gifts to this wedding. As every one likes to give a toast and often people are not prepared, there are to be perfectly exquisite cards passed to each one to be read aloud after refreshments. These cards are done in gold lettering, with a mother of pearl motif worked out beautifully. The choicest gems of our best writers are found on these latest creations. I must admit they are only postcards, as the reverse side shows. For want of a better name I call them "Sentiment" cards. After the guests have paid this pretty tribute the cards are to be collected and put in a box covered with cloth of gold and presented to the aged couple.

A Guessing Contest.

This clever little stunt was the finale at a shower given for a November bride. A table was brought into the room having on it a lot of things, each one representing a cake; cards were passed bearing the duplicate numbers of those on the articles. Great fun was had in the guessing. Here are some of the objects, and a hostess may enlarge the list as she desires: A sponge (sponge cake), a little toy hen for "layer cake," a chocolate lozenge (chocolate cake), two little Cupids (angel food), a picture of a bride in full wedding costume (wedding cake), a bit of gold and silver gauze or ribbon (gold and silver cake), etc. For prizes there were recipe books and several beautifully decorated cakes.

MADAME MERRI.

CARE OF THE TABLE LINEN

Best Quality Will Quickly Spoil If Not Handled in the Proper Manner.

The careful keeping of table linen will mean more toward a perfect table than perhaps the quality of the linen itself. The most exquisite table linen will look no better than the poorest quality if it be thrown into a too small drawer or closet.

Just a pair of tablecloths will go further if they are kept well flattened or, better still, rolled on a pasteboard or wooden roller than a dozen ill-kept ones.

All centerpieces, if not rolled, should be spread flat, in a full-sized box or a linen-covered portfolio. The portfolio is a reliable addition to the dining room or pantry, and it may be made at home by covering two pieces of pasteboard with tan-colored linen or crash, hinging them together with coarse linen thread or with narrow ribbon strips an inch in length, so that the portfolio will hold more flat linen pieces. This, when filled, is tied together with ribbons and kept in a napkin drawer, where even the sudden rush for napkins can no longer wrinkle the embroidered linens.

NEW STRENGTH FOR WOMEN'S BACKS.

How to Make a Bad Back Better.

Women who suffer with backache, bearing down pains, dizzy spells and that constant feeling of dullness and tiredness, will find hope in the advice of Mrs. Mary Hinson of 21 Strother St., Mt. Sterling, Ky. "Had I not used Doan's Kidney Pills, I believe I would not be living today," says Mrs. Hinson. "My eyesight was poor, I suffered with nervous, splitting headaches, spots would dance before my eyes and at times I would be so dizzy I would have to grasp something for support. My back was so weak and painful I could hardly bend over to button my shoes and could not get around without suffering severely. Doan's Kidney Pills helped me from the first, and I continued until practically well again."

Mistake Somewhere.

A story comes from a Kentucky town that is worth repeating. There lives there a woman who says that she has immediate communion with the Almighty, and now and then delivers to those of common clay a message that she has received from on high. The fact that these messages sometimes take on a very materialistic hue does not alter their effectiveness, in her opinion.

One day she went into the office of a well known attorney and approached him solemnly as one about to reveal an awe-inspiring secret.

"The Lord sent me to you for $25," she announced.

The attorney looked up and smiled.

"That must be a mistake," he replied, blandly, "because the Lord knows I have not got it."

Celestial communication was there upon broken off.

As to the Hessian Fly.

The Hessian fly is a German product which was conceived in iniquity and born in sauerkraut. It is a long, rangy fly with a bite like a steel trap, and it lays a pale blue, oblong egg at the rate of 30,000 an hour. The Hessian fly will eat anything from decayed custard pie to a glass inkwell, but its favorite dish is the double neck of a fat gent. This bird can perform a two-step on sticky fly-paper without crooking its toes, and is proof against rough on rats, the daisy fly killer, and a strychnine hypodermic. No Hessian fly was ever known to die of anything but old age, which accounts for the color of its whiskers. If it ever fastens upon your jowl, it will stay until removed by the undertaker.—Manchester (Ia.) Press.

SOME HARD KNOCKS

Woman Gets Rid of "Coffee Heart."

The injurious action of Coffee on the heart of many persons is well known by physicians to be caused by caffeine. This is the drug found by chemists in coffee and tea.

A woman suffered a long time with severe heart trouble and finally her doctor told her she must give up coffee, as that was the principal cause of the trouble. She writes:

"My heart was so weak it could not do its work properly. My husband would sometimes have to carry me from the table, and it would seem that I would never breathe again.

"The doctor told me that coffee was causing the weakness of my heart. He said I must stop it, but it seemed I could not give it up until I was down in bed with nervous prostration.

"For eleven weeks I lay there and suffered. Finally Husband brought home some Postum and I quit coffee and started new and right. Slowly I got well. Now I do not have any headaches, nor those spells with weak heart. We know it is Postum that helped me. The Dr. said the other day, 'I never thought you would be what you are.' I used to weigh 92 pounds and now I weigh 158.

"Postum has done much for me and I would not go back to coffee again for any money, for I believe it would kill me if I kept at it. Postum must be well boiled according to directions on pkg., then it has a rich flavour and with cream is fine."

Read "The Road to Wellville," found in pkgs. "There's a Reason."

Ever read the above letter? A new one appears from time to time. They are genuine, true, and full of human interest.

CURES
RHEUMATISM
LUMBAGO, SCIATICA
NEURALGIA and
KIDNEY TROUBLE

"5-DROPS" taken internally, rids the blood of the poisonous matter and acids which are the direct causes of these diseases. Applied externally it affords almost instant relief from pain, while a permanent cure is being effected by purifying the blood, dissolving the poisonous substance and removing it from the system.

DR. S. D. BLAND
Of Brewton, Ga., writes:
"I had been a sufferer for a number of years with Lumbago and Rheumatism in my arms and legs, and tried all the remedies that I could gather from medical works, and also consulted with a number of the best physicians, but found nothing that gave the relief obtained from "5-DROPS." I shall prescribe it in my practice for rheumatism and kindred diseases."

FREE

If you are suffering with Rheumatism, Neuralgia, Kidney Trouble or any kindred disease, write to us for a trial bottle of "5-DROPS," and test it yourself.

"5-DROPS" can be used any length of time without acquiring a "drug habit," as it is entirely free of opium, cocaine, alcohol, laudanum, and other similar ingredients.

Large Size Bottle, "5-DROPS" (300 Doses) $1.00. For Sale by Druggists.

If you are a business man, did you ever think of the field of opportunity that advertising opens to you? There is almost no limit to the possibilities of your business if you study how to turn trade into your store. If you are not getting your share of the business of your community there's a reason. People go where they are attracted—where they know what they can get and how much it is sold for. If you make direct statements in your advertising see to it that you are able to fulfill every promise you make. You will add to your business reputation and hold your customers. It will not cost as much to run your ad in this paper as you think. It is the persistent advertiser who gets there. Have something in the paper every issue, no matter how small. We will be pleased to quote you our advertising rates, particularly on the year's business.

MAKE YOUR APPEAL

to the public through the columns of this paper. With every issue it carries its message into the homes and lives of the people. Your competitor has his store news in this issue. Why don't you have yours? Don't blame the people for flocking to his store. They know what he has.

The Home Paper Gives you the reading matter in which you have the greatest interest—the home news. Its every issue will prove a welcome visitor to every member of the family. It should head your list of newspaper and periodical subscriptions.

Enlarging Your Business

If you are in business and you want to make more money you will read every word we have to say. Are you spending your money for advertising in haphazard fashion as if intended for charity, or do you advertise for direct results?

Did you ever stop to think how your advertising can be made a source of profit to you, and how its value can be measured in dollars and cents. If you have not, you are throwing money away.

Advertising is a modern business necessity, but must be conducted on business principles. If you are not satisfied with your advertising you should set aside a certain amount of money to be spent annually, and then carefully note the effect it has in increasing your volume of business; whether a 10, 20 or 30 per cent increase. If you watch this gain from year to you will become intensely interested in your advertising, and how you can make it enlarge your business.

If you try this method we believe you will not want to let a single issue of this paper go to press without something from your store.

We will be pleased to have you call on us, and we will take pleasure in explaining our annual contract for so many inches, and how it can be used in whatever amount that seems necessary to you.

If you can sell goods over the counter we can also show you why this paper will best serve your interests when you want to reach the people of this community.

JOB PRINTING We can do the finest class of printing, and we can do that class just a little cheaper than the other fellow. Wedding invitations, letter heads, bill heads, sale bills, statements, dodgers, cards, etc., all receive the same careful treatment—just a little better than seems necessary. Prompt delivery always.

Clothing, Shoes, Hats, Furnishings, Etc

AS HEREWITH ADVERTISED

I am confronted with one of the most difficult problems in my business career of twelve years in Emporium. In order to hold and increase the business of this store, with the class of people who desire reliable and well made clothing and shoes, I have, season after season, supplied my stock with the most elaborate varieties of new and up-to-date styles and fabrics, for old and young, regardless of how much goods were on hand. Owing to the ever increasing advance on all goods, my purchases this fall were unusually large because I secured options on large lines and then headed off considerable rise over the prices which I paid.

The remarkable backward weather has not enabled me to dispose of the calculated quantity of goods, and that together with our already larger stock than what profitable business dictates, compels me to-day to realize cash on my goods regardless of loss, as the cheapest and best business method.

For Aged People

Old Folks Should be Careful in Their Selection of Regulative Medicine.

With advanced age comes inactive bowel movement and sluggish liver. Nature is unable to perform her proper functions and requires assistance. Otherwise, there is constant suffering from constipation and its attendant evils. Old folks should never use physic that is harsh and irritating.

We have a safe dependable and altogether ideal remedy that is particularly adapted to the requirements of aged people and persons of weak constipation or other bowel disorder. We are so certain that it will completely relieve these complaints and give absolute satisfaction in every particular that we offer them with our personal guarantee that they shall cost the user nothing if they fail to substantiate our claims. This remedy is called Rexall Rexall Orderlies.

Rexall Orderlies are eaten like candy. They have a soothing, healing, strengthening, tonic and regulative action upon the dry mucous lining and the relaxed muscular coat of the bowel. They produce a natural, successive contraction and relaxation of the muscular fibres of the bowel walls, generating a wave-like motion which forces their contents onward and outward; thus stimulating nature in perfect bowel movement. They tone up and strengthen the nerves and muscles and restore the bowels and associate organs to more vigorous and healthy activity. They may be taken at any time without inconvenience; do not cause any griping, nausea, diarrhoea, excessive looseness, flatulence or other disagreeable effect. Try Rexall Orderlies on our guarantee; 36 tablets 25 cents, and 12 tablets 10 cents. Remember you can obtain Rexall Remedies in Emporium only at our store—The Rexall Store. The Emporium Drug Store.

A COMMON ERROR.

The Same Mistake is Made by Many Emporium People.

It's a common error,
To plaster the aching back,
To rub with liniments rheumatic joints.
When the trouble comes from the kidneys.
Doan's Kidney Pills cures all kidney ills.
And are endorsed by Emporium citizens.

Mrs. Anna Zimmet, W. Fourth St., Emporium, Pa., says: "I suffered from kidney trouble for years though I doctored and used numerous remedies I could get no relief. I had backache, pains through my loins, severe headaches, and a constant feeling of languor and depression. The kidneys were much disordered and the secretions passed so frequently as to cause me great annoyance. I finally learned of Doan's Kidney Pills and procured a box from Geo. C. Taggart's drug store. I am now seldom troubled with backache. My kindeys have been strengthened and s feel better in every way. I strongly advise anyone suffering from kidney trouble to use Doan's Kidney Pills."

For sale by all dealers. Price 50 cents. Foster-Milburn Co., Buffalo, New York, sole agents. Remember the name—Doan's—and take no other.

A Methodist Minister Recommends Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy.

"I have used Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy for several years for diarrhoea. I consider it the best remedy I have ever tried for that trouble. I bought a bottle of it a few days ago from our druggist, R. R. Brooks. I shall ever be glad to speak a word in its praise when I have the opportunity."—Rev. J. D. Knapp, Pastor M. E. Church, Miles Grove, Pa. Sold by Geo. C. Taggart.

When you have a cold the first thing to do is have the bowels move. Do not take anything that may constipate—and most old fashioned cough cures do constipate. Try Kennedy's Laxative Cough Syrup. It drives the cold from the system by a free yet gentle action of the bowels; it stops the cough, it is pleasant to take. Children like it. Sold by all druggists.

DeWitt's Little Early Risers—the safe, sure, gentle, easy little liver pills. Be sure to get DeWitt's Carbolized Witch Hazel Salve, the original. Always refuse substitutes and imitations. The original DeWitt's Carbolized Witch Hazel Salve is good for anything a salve is used for, but it is especially good for piles. Sold by all druggists.

It you have noticed symptoms of kidney trouble, do not delay in taking the most reliable and dependable remedy possible, such as DeWitt's Kidney and Bladder Pills. These wonderful pills are being used with great satisfaction by thousands of people. Try DeWitt's Kidney and Bladder Pills to-day. Sold by all druggists.

The Secret of Sexine Pills.

There isn't any. Their wonderful effects are simply the result of a scientific combination of the best remedies that are known in medicine for the upbuilding and rejuvenating of tired, weak and worn out men and women. They act on the blood in such a manner, that the user is soon imbued with new life and hope and happiness. Price $1 a box; six boxes $5, fully guaranteed on the money back plan. Address or call on R. C. Dodson, Druggist, Emporium, Pa, where they sell all the principal remedies and do not substitute.

Croup Cured and a Child's Life Saved

"It affords me great pleasure to add my testimony to that of the thousands who have been benefited by Chamberlain's Cough Remedy. My child, Andrew, when only three years old was taken with a severe attack of croup, and thanks to the prompt use of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy his life was saved and to-day he is a robust and healthy boy," says Mrs A. Coy, Jr., of San Antonio, Texas. This remedy has been in use for many years. Thousands of mothers keep it at hand, and it has never been known to fail. For sale by Geo. C. Taggart.

Emporium Milling Co.

Pre-Eminent Among Thanksgiving Good Things.

THE EMPORIUM ROLLER MILLS flour is one of the first factors to be considered, as it enters more or less into most of the dishes that make the feast, and therefore is an essential that cannot be overlooked. Bread, Cakes, Pies and pastry make the greatest claim upon its usefullness, and it gives to these articles their principal claim as table delicacies.

SIMPLE CURE FOR PIMPLES.

There is only one way to obtain a clear transparent and a flawless Complexion; massage treatment makes the flesh flabby, the so called beauty creams containing oily or other greasy substances, fill up the pores of the skin, preventing them from doing their work properly, and also induce the growth of a fine fuzzy hair on the face. If you would have a face entirely free from Pimples, Blotches, Eczema, Blackheads and kindered diseases of the skin, get the following prescription put up at any reliable Drug Store and your troubles will soon be over, Clearola one-half ounce, Ether one once, Alcohol seven ounces. Mix, shake well and apply to the face night and morning, allowing it to remain at least ten minutes the longer the quicker results you will have. In extreme cases apply four or five times.

The filmy powder deposits on the face may be wiped off after a reasonable time. Do not use soap, instead wash the face with oat meal and a little powdered orris root tied up in a cheese cloth bag, and no matter how bad your face is, or what the cause may have been, this will surely cure it. This prescription is perfectly harmless and can be used on the most delicate skin.

By Evening She Had Her Tree-Cave in a Habitable Condition.

SYNOPSIS.

The story opens with the shipwreck of the steamer on which Miss Genevieve Leslie, an American heiress, Lord Winthrope, an Englishman, and Tom Blake, a brusque American, were passengers. The three were tossed upon an uninhabited island and were the only ones not drowned. Blake recovered from a drunken stupor. Blake, shunned on the boat, because of his roughness, became a hero as preserver of the helpless pair. The Englishman was suing for the hand of Miss Leslie. Blake started to swim back to the ship to recover what was left. Blake returned safely. Winthrope wasted his last match on a cigarette, for which he was scored by Blake. Their first meal was a dead fish. The trio started a ten mile hike for higher land. Thirst attacked them. Blake was compelled to carry Miss Leslie on account of weariness. He taunted Winthrope. They entered the jungle. That night was passed roosting high in a tree. The next morning they descended to the open again. All three constructed hats to shield themselves from the sun. They then feasted on cocoanuts, the only procurable food. Miss Leslie showed a liking for Blake, but detested his roughness. Led by Blake they established a home in some cliffs. Blake found a fresh water spring. Miss Leslie faced an unpleasant situation. They planned their campaign. Blake recovered his surveyor's magnifying glass, thus insuring fire. He started a jungle fire, killing a large leopard and smothering several cubs. In the leopard's cavern they built a small home. They gained the cliffs by burning the bottom of a tree until it fell against the heights.

CHAPTER X.—Continued.

The hot ashes flew up in her face and powdered her hair with their gray dust; yet she persisted, blowing steadily until a shred of bark caught the sparks and flared up in a tiny flame. A little more, and she had a strong fire blazing against the tree trunk.

She rested a short time, relaxing both mentally and physically in the satisfying consciousness that Blake never should know how near she had come to failing in her trust.

Soon she became aware of a keen feeling of thirst and hunger. She rose, piled a fresh supply of sticks on the fire, and hastened back through the cleft toward the spring. Around the baobab she came upon Winthrope, working in the shade of the great tree. The three leopard skins had been stretched upon bamboo frames, and he was resignedly scraping at their inner surfaces with a smooth-edged stone. Miss Leslie did not look too closely at the operation.

"Where is—he?" she asked.

Winthrope motioned down the cleft.

"I hope he hasn't gone far. I'm half famished. Aren't you?"

"Really, Miss Genevieve, it is odd, you know. Not an hour since, the very thought of food—"

"And now you're as hungry as I am. Oh, I do wish he had not gone off just at the wrong time!"

"He went to take a dip in the sea. You know, he got so messed up over the nastiest part of the work, which I positively refused to do—"

"What's that beyond the bamboos? There's something alive!"

"Pray, don't be alarmed. It is—er—it is all right, Miss Genevieve, I assure you."

"But what is it? Such queer noises, and I see something alive!"

"Only the vlutures, if you must know. Nothing else, I assure you."

"Oh!"

"It is all out of sight from the spring. You are not to go around the bamboos until the—that is, not to-day."

"Did Mr. Blake say that?"

"Why, yes—to be sure. He also said to tell you that the cutlets were on the top shelf."

"You mean—?"

"His way of ordering you to cook our dinner. Really, Miss Genevieve, I should be pleased to take your place, but I have been told to keep to this. It is hard to take orders from a low fellow—very hard for a gentleman, you know."

Miss Leslie gazed at her shapely hands. Three days since she could not have conceived of their being so rough and scratched and dirty. Yet her disgust at their condition was not entirely unqualified.

"At least I have something to show for them," she murmured.

"I beg pardon," said Winthrope.

"Just look at my hands—like a servant's! And yet I am not nearly so ashamed of them as I would have fancied. It is very amusing, but do you know, I actually feel proud that I have done something—something useful, I mean."

"Useful?—I call it shocking, Miss Genevieve. It is simply vile that people of our breeding should be compelled to do such menial work. They write no end of romances about castways; but I fail to see the romance in scraping skins Indian fashion, as this fellow Blake calls it."

"I suppose, though, we should remember how much Mr. Blake is doing for us, and should try to make the best of the situation."

"It has no best. It is all a beastly muddle," complained Winthrope, and he resumed his nervous scraping at the big leopard skin.

The girl studied his face for a moment, and turned away. She had been trying so hard to forget.

He heard her leave, and called after, without looking up: "Please remember. He said to cook some meat."

She did not answer. Having satisfied her thirst at the spring, she took one of the bamboo rods, with its haggled blackening pieces of flesh, and returned to the fire. After some little experimenting, she contrived a way to support the rod beside the fire so that all the meat would roast without burning.

At first, keen as was her hunger, she turned with disgust from the flabby sun-seared flesh; but as it began to roast, the odor restored her appetite to full vigor. Her mouth fairly watered. It seemed as though Winthrope and Blake would never come. She heard their voices, and took the bamboo spit from the fire for the meat to cool. Still they failed to appear, and, unable to wait longer, she began to eat. The cub meat proved far more tender than that of the old leopard. She had helped herself to the second piece before the two men appeared.

"Hold on, Miss Jenny; fair play!" sang out Blake. "You've set to without tooting the dinner-horn. I don't blame you, though. That smells mighty good."

Both men caught at the hot meat with eagerness, and Winthrope promptly forgot all else in the animal pleasure of satisfying his hunger. Blake, though no less hungry, only waited to fill his mouth before investigating the condition of the prospective tree ladder. The result of the attempt to burn the trunk did not seem encouraging to the others, and Miss Leslie looked away, that her face might not betray her, should he have an inkling of her neglect. She was relieved by the cheerfulness of his tone.

"Slow work, this fire business—eh? Guess, though, it'll go faster this afternoon. The green wood is killed and is getting dried out. Anyway, we've got to keep at it till the tree goes over. This spring leopard won't last long at the present rate of consumption, and we'll need the eggs to keep us going till we get the hang of our bows."

"What is that smoke back there?" interrupted Miss Leslie. "Can it be that the fire down the cleft has sprung up again?"

"No; it's your fumigation. You had plenty of brush on hand, so I heaved it into the hole and touched it off. While it's burning out you can put in time gathering ring grass and leaves for a bed."

"Would you and Mr. Winthrope mind breaking off some bamboos for me?"

"What for?"

Miss Leslie colored and hesitated. "I—I should like to divide off a corner of the place with a wall or screen."

Winthrope tried to catch Blake's eye; but the American was gazing at Miss Leslie's embarrassed face with a puzzled look. Her meaning dawned upon him, and he hastened to reply.

"All right, Miss Jenny. You can build your wall to suit yourself. But there'll be no hurry over it. Until the rains begin, Win and I'll sleep out in the open. We'll have to take turnabout on watch at night, anyway. If we don't keep up a fire some other spotted kitty will be sure to come nosing up the gully."

"There must also be lions in the vicinity," added Winthrope.

Miss Leslie said nothing until after the last pieces of meat had been handed around and Blake sprang up to resume work.

"Mr. Blake," she called, in a low tone; "one moment, please. Would it save much bother if a door was made and you and Mr. Winthrope should sleep inside?"

"We'll see about that later," replied Blake, carelessly.

The girl bit her lip, and the tears started to her eyes. Even Winthrope had started off without expressing his appreciation. Yet he at least should have realized how much it had cost her to make such an offer.

By evening she had her tree-cave—house, she preferred to name it to herself—in a habitable condition. When the purifying fire had burnt itself out, leaving the place free from all odors other than the wholesome smell of wood smoke, she had asked Blake how she could rake out the ashes. His advice was to wet them down where they lay.

This was easier said than done. Fortunately the spring was only a few yards distant, and after many trips, with her palm-leaf hat for bowl, the girl carried enough water to sprinkle all the powdery ashes. Over them she strewed the leaves and grass which she had gathered while the fire was burning. The driest of the grass, arranged in a far corner, promised a more comfortable bed than had been her lot for the last three nights.

During this work she had been careful not to forget the fire at the tree. Yet when, near sundown, she called the third meal of leopard meat, Blake grumbled at the tree for being what he termed such a confounded tough proposition.

"Good thing there's lots of wood here, Win," he added. "We'll keep this fire going till the blamed thing topples over, if it takes a year."

"Oh, but you surely will not stay so far from the baobab to-night!" exclaimed Miss Leslie.

"Hold hard!" soothed Blake. "You've no license to get the jumps yet a while. We'll have another fire by the baobab. So you needn't worry."

A few minutes later they went back to the baobab, and Winthrop began helping Miss Leslie to construct a bamboo screen in the narrow entrance of the tree-cave, while Blake built the second fire.

As Winthrope was unable to tell time by the stars, Blake took the first watch. At sunset, following the engineer's advice, Winthrope lay down with his feet to the small watch-fire, and was asleep before twilight had deepened into night. Fagged out by the mental and bodly stress of the day, he slept so soundly that it seemed to him he hardly lost consciousness when he was roused by a rough hand on his forehead.

"What is it?" he mumbled.

"'Bout one o'clock," said Blake. "Wake up! I ran overtime, 'cause the morning watch is the toughest. But I can't keep 'wake any longer."

"I say, this is a beastly bore," remarked Winthrope, sitting up.

"Um-m," grunted Blake, who was already on his back.

Winthrope rubbed his eyes, rose wearily, and drew a blazing stick from the fire. With this upraised as a torch he peered around into the darkness and advanced towards the spring.

When, having satisfied his thirst, he returned somewhat hurriedly to the fire, he was startled by the sight of a pale face gazing at him from between the leaves of the bamboo screen.

"My dear Miss Genevieve, what is the matter?" he exclaimed.

"Hush! Is he asleep?"

"Like a top."

"Thank heaven! Good-night."

"Good-night—er—I say, Miss Genevieve—"

But the girl disappeared, and Winthrope, after a glance at Blake's placid face, hurried along the cleft to stack the other fire. When he returned he noticed two bamboo rods which Blake had begun to shape into bow staves. He looked them over, with a sneer at Blake's seemingly unskillful workmanship; but he made no attempt to finish the bows.

CHAPTER XI.

A Despoiled Wardrobe.

SOON after sunrise Miss Leslie was awakened by the snap and dull crash of a falling tree. She made a hasty toilet and ran out around the baobab. The burned tree, eaten half through by the fire, had been pushed over against the cliff by Blake and Winthrope. Both had already climbed up and now stood on the edge of the cliff.

"Hello, Miss Jenny!" shouted Blake. "We've got here at last. Want to come up?"

"Not now, thank you."

"It's easy enough. But you're right. Try your hand again at the cutlets, won't you? While they're frying we'll get some eggs for dessert. How does that strike you?"

"We have no way to cook them."

"Roast 'em in the ashes. So long!"

Miss Leslie cooked breakfast over the watchfire, for the other had been scattered and stamped out by the men when the tree fell. They came back in good time, walking carefully, that they might not break the eggs with which their pockets bulged. Between them, they had brought a round dozen and a half. Blake promptly began stowing all in the hot ashes, while Winthrope related their little adventure with unwonted enthusiasm.

"You should have come with us, Miss Genevieve," he began. "This time of day it is glorious on the cliff top. Though the rock is bare, there is a fine view—"

"Fine view of grub near the end," interpolated Blake.

"As, yes; the birds —you must take a look at them, Miss Genevieve! The sea end of the cliff is alive with them—hundreds and thousands, all huddled together and fighting for room. They are a sight, I assure you! They're plucky, too. It was well we took sticks with us. As it was, one of the gannets—boobies, Blake calls them—caught me a nasty nip when I went to lift her off the nest."

"Best way is to kick them off," explained Blake. "But the point is that we've hopped over the starvation stile. Understand? The whole blessed cliff end is an omelette waiting for our pan. Pass the leopardettes, Miss Jenny."

When the last bit of meat had disappeared, Blake raked the eggs from the ashes and began to crack them, solemnly sniffing at each before he laid it on its leaf platter. Some were a trifle "high." None, however, were thrown away.

When it was all over, Winthrope contemplated the scattered shells with a satisfied air.

"Do you know," he remarked, "this is the first time I've felt—er—replenished since we found those cocoanuts."

"How about one of 'em now to top off on?" questioned Blake.

Why Musicians Wear Long Hair.

"Why do musicians wear long hair?" said the barber. "Pshaw, I thought everybody knew that. They wear long hair to protect their ears, of course—their sensitive ears. All depends, with musicians, on the ears, the same as all depends on the eyes with painters. And the ears of musicians are delicate, liable to take cold, liable to aches, inflammations and what not. So they protect them with long hair, and you have no more right to laugh at the mane of a pianist or violinist than at the protective shields and pads of your favorite halfback."

Law.

Of law there can be no less acknowledged than that her seat is the bosom of God, her voice the harmony of the world; all things in heaven and earth do her homage, the very least as feeling her care, and the greatest as not exempted from her power; both angels and men and creatures of what condition soever, though each in different sort and manner, yet all with uniform consent, admiring her as the mother of their peace and joy.—Richard Hooker.

ANOTHER IMPORTANT VICTORY FOR THE CARTER MEDICINE COMPANY IN THE UNITED STATES COURT.

The United States Circuit Court for the Southern District of New York—sitting in New York City—has just awarded to the Carter Medicine Company a decree which again sustains the company's exclusive right to use the red package for liver pills.

By the terms of the decree, it is, among other things:

Adjudged that the Carter Medicine Company is the owner of the sole and exclusive right to the use of red colored wrappers and labels upon said small, round packages of liver pills of the style described in the bill of complaint; said right having been acquired by the prior adoption of said style and color of package for liver pills by the complainant predecessors more than thirty years ago, and established by the continuous and exclusive use of the same in constantly increasing quantities by said predecessors and by the complainant, the Carter Medicine Company, itself, from the time of their said adoption until the present day.

The decision just announced is perhaps the most important and far-reaching of all, by reason of the character of the tribunal which rendered it. No Court in the country stands higher.

A MATTER OF GEOGRAPHY.

"We are now exactly 1,000 feet above the level of the sea."

"What sea?"

"The guide-book doesn't say."

Lost in Antiquity.

A little fellow who had just felt the hard side of the slipper turned to his mother for consolation.

"Mother," he asked, "did grandpa thrash father when he was a little boy?"

"Yes," answered his mother, impressively.

"And did his father thrash him when he was little?"

"Yes."

"And did his father thrash him?"

"Yes."

A pause.

"Well, who started this thing, anyway?"—Cassell's Saturday Journal.

A man will coax his wife till she gives in, and is pleased with himself when he succeeds, but when the children coax her, and she yields, he is disgusted with her.—Atchison (Kan.) Globe.

BEAN RUST DISCOVERED AMONG COMMON PLANTS

Destructive Disease, Similar in Character to that Which Often Attacks Wheat—Has Three Stages—
By L. H. Pammel.

For a number of years we have had under observation a rust occurring rather abundantly on the common bean, especially the pole bean. During the summer of 1908 specimens of the rust were sent in by a correspondent from Grinnell, Ia., where it was common and destructive. During the same season the cluster-cup stage was collected by one of us at La [illegible] is commonly [illegible] wild beans. That the cup stage found is of especial interest as it accounts for the source of infection of the cultivated bean.

This bean rust in its development is not unlike the common wheat rust, which has three stages. In the case of wheat rust, the first stage is upon the barberry, but in the case of the bean all three stages occur upon the same host plant.

The aecidium or cluster-cup stage occurs upon the under surface of the leaves in definite spots. The color of the leaf in the vicinity of the spots does not differ materially from the color of the remainder of the leaf. The number of the cups (aecidia) varies from 4-6 in the smaller spots to 20-25 in the larger spots. They are pale in color, the peridial cells being colorless. The spores are spherical to elliptical 10-26 u in diameter, minutely roughened. The spermogonia are on the upper surface of the leaf, minute; the spermatia small, spherical. The uredospores occur in spots which are at first roundish, but later, becoming confluent, for irregular patches frequentyl quadratic in form; the sori or pustules of the fungus occur on [illegible] surfaces of the leaf, and not introublesome [illegible] pod and peduncle, occasionally becomes [illegible] in a spot. cause serious loss. It is recommended by Pammel and by Beach as destructive to late varieties, particularly to the wax bean.

Careful selection of seed grown in regions where the rust is not found, the burning of old bean leaces likely to contain winter spores, and the destruction of wild beans in the neighboring grounds are the best means to hold the bean rust in check.

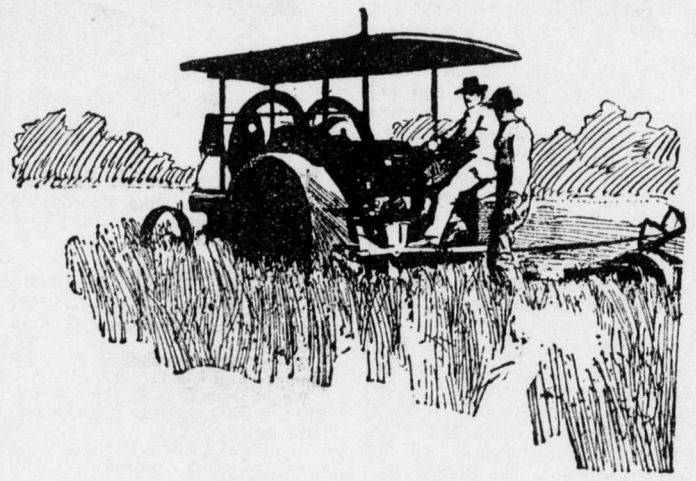
ENGINES ON SMALL FARMS



Twenty-Horse Power Engine at Work.

The use of the most "modern methods" in farming in Kansas is by no means restricted to the huge ranches. In nearly every locality in the state there are farmers who are using traction engines, with either steam or gasoline for power, to plow and harrow.

Near Muscotah, Kan., there is a ranch comprising 680 acres, on which the plowing and harrowing is being done with a 20-horse power gasoline engine. This hauls four 14-inch gang plows and a two-horse harrow—the equivalent of saying that the engine does the work of 20 horses. The distance traversed—and it's over "tough" soil, too—is from two to two and one-half miles a day. One harrow is placed off to the side so that the result is a double harrowing of the ground without making a second trip.

There were many doubters of the advisability of investing in an engine for a tract of 680 acres. It was considered too small an area to warrant the initial expense for the machine. The owners of the ranch, however, say that the engine soon will save its own cost. Thus far in the test it has proved entirely satisfactory.

APPLE BARRELS VERY COSTLY

Manufacturers Report Good Inquiry for Finished Stock, Also for Staves and Heads.

Barrel manufacturers report a good inquiry for finished apple barrels, also for staves and heads. Prices promise to rule about as high as last year, says Orange Judd Farmer. In a general way new apple barrels, three-bushel standard, are quotable in a wholesale way to 32 to 35 cents each. A manufacturer at St. Louis quotes 35 cents f. o. b. A Kansas City cooper quotes No. 1 apple barrels at 35 cents and No. 2 at 30 cents f. o. b. factory. He writes that apple crop is light in that section. With no relief in price of containers, this fact must be considered in contracting the crops now on the trees.

The price of new apple barrels in the west is much as last year, coopers asking something close to 35 cents each for new barrels, standard size. Some of the large growers buy barrel stock and put up their own barrels. This season such will cost them about 32 cents, or possibly a little less, in thus handling them.

In the apple territory between Cincinnati and Philadelphia there is nothing to indicate any lower prices for apple barrels with lumber and timber held so continuously high. Manufacturers in West Virginia are quoting new barrels at 32 cents each.

The demand for animals of good dairy breeding is greater than the supply.

Go to any good prescription druggist and get the following and mix them: If he does not have these ingredients he will get them from his wholesale house.

One ounce compound syrup of Sarsaparilla, and one ounce Toris compound. Add these to a half pint of first-class whiskey, and use a tablespoonful before each meal and at bed time. The bottle must be well shaken each time. This simple remedy is one of the most effective known. The restorative action will be felt after the first few doses.

The Remarkable Trimming.

"Jimmy," said the pretty actress to her actor husband, "won't you run down to the milliner's and get me the hat I ordered?"

"Sure I won't make a mistake?" queried Jimmy, somewhat dubiously, with a caution born of an utter ignorance of millinery.

"Oh, you won't," laughed the spouse. "What is the white beaver trimmed on-you-a[illegible] You can remember made funny Parisian gibe[illegible] un-

One Was Enough for Johnny.

The Sunday school lesson was from that scripture which teaches that if your brother strike you on one cheek, you should turn the other also and endure even for seventy times seven. Johnny had listened to his teacher very attentively, while she emphasized this fact, and after the lesson the superintendent rose to make a few remarks.

"Now, boys," he said, "how many times ought another boy to strike you before you hit him back?"

"Just about once!" promptly answered Johnny.—Delineator.

LOUISE.

FIRST FORK

We have had the first hunting accident this season in this neck of woods to report. On Tuesday afternoon some hunters out after birds, camping at Lushbaugh. One man, who carried a 22 calibre Winchester, shot at a bird; the bullet glancing from a limb and striking a man named Wagner, the ball passing through his chin and lodging in his neck. Dr. Geo. Reese, of Costello, came down and "rendered first aid" to the wounded man. On Wednesday morning one of the party took him to Williamsport Hospital, where the bullet was extracted. He is likely to recover. It was certainly a close call. The party broke camp and departed for their homes on Saturday.

On Thursday, a man was killed at Wharton, while coupling cars on the Medix Run log train, when he was caught between two logs when the train bumped. He leaves a wife and six children at Austin. Did not hear his name.

On Saturday, C. E. Logue and Fred Williams took their tents and "silently stole away" to the woods, where they have opened a "Hunters Resort" for the deer season. On their way out they captured, alive, a large coon and have him for a mascot at the camp.

On Thursday, of last week, George Strickler and C. E. Legue went out in the morning to look at their bear traps. They sat down on the bank of the stream to rest and noticed some wild bees coming to the Run for a drink and also to work on some honey they were using for bear bait. Geo. took their trail, but went only a short distance when he located them in an old maple that had blown down. The same afternoon they went up and robbed the bees of forty pounds of nice honey.

Joe McMurray and Harry Williams, of Johnsonburg, returned home on Thursday with a bear, which they captured alive.

Frank Williams, of Pine Flats, Pa., was here for a bear hunt and a day or two after his arrival was out in the woods, when he came across quite a large bear, that was running away with a trap—the clog having become detached—and he stopped him with a bullet through the head. A day or two following he captured a cub alive and took the whole outfit home with him.

On day last week there was a wreck on the B. & S. R. R., near Fred Peno's, coused by a broken flange. Passengers had to be transferred all day. On Saturday another wreck took place at Bennezette and passengers had to be transferred.

Misss Dinger, teacher at Gilmore school, who was reported seriously ill last week, is better and hopes to resume teaching on Tuesday.

A Breakfast for Five Costs Only 10c

All the wealth in the world could buy nothing finer for breakfast than Beardsley's Shredded Codfish.

This forms the favorite morning meal in many a millionare's home. And dozens of dishes made from it are on the breakfast and luncheon menus of this country's most expensive hotels.

Yet more than enough for five hungry people will cost you only 10 cents.

And there's nothing easier to prepare. You can have it ready for the table—cooked to the Queen's taste—in less than 10 minutes.

BEARDSLEY'S TRADE SHREDDED MARK CODFISH

The Incomparable Flavor

Lots of people like Beardsley's Shredded Codfish so well that they eat it right out of the package—before it is cooked.

This doesn't taste at all like the old-fashioned dried codfish.

And you'll find a vast difference between this and all other codfish in packages.

We use only the choicest fish—the plumpest and fattest.

We get them from Northern waters. The fish which feed here attain a superlative flavor.

And we take only the choicest parts of each fish—the sweetest, most delicate meat.

Better Than New Laid Eggs

Your folks will find Beardsley's Shredded Codfish a welcome change from meat or eggs.

It is richer in food value than either.

It contains 22 per cent protein. Sirloin steak only 17 per cent. Eggs only 12 1-2. Protein is the strength-giving, nourishing element in food.

And see what you save by serving it.

A package of this—plenty for five—costs only ten cents.

Eggs or meat for five cost three or four times as much.

Have It Tomorrow —"Fish-Day"

Surprise your folks tomorrow morning—"fish-day"—with this delicious food.

When they find out how good it is, they'll want it at least once a week.

There are so many appetizing ways to prepare it, that no one can ever tire of it.

Breakfast Ready in 10 Minutes

Beardsley's Shredded Codfish is no bother at all to prepare.

No bones to pick out—no washing—no soaking—no boiling.

It's so fine and fluffy and dainty that it cooks in less than ten minutes.

Get a package today from your grocer. Be sure it's Beardsley's—the package with the red band. Beardsley's is the only Shredded Codfish. No other kind will taste half so good.
